Spring Medicine

Everybody knows what that tired feeling is. It will tell you that your whole system needs cleansing, toning and invigorating. The weather is warmer, but changeable; one day is spring-like, the next chilly; you are subject to colds, and have no appetite. The condition of your blood is responsible for this. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best Spring Medicine. It expels all impurities, and gives the blood the vitalizing principle it needs. It creates an appetite, and builds up the whole system. Thousands have taken it this season, and have been surprised at the good it has done them. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla and only Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., and is sold by druggists at $1; six for $5. Don't be induced to buy any other preparation which may be recommended to be "just as good as Hood's Sarsaparilla," but insist upon having Hood's Sarsaparilla, and you will not be disappointed.

Strengthen the System

Hood's Sarsaparilla is a highly concentrated extract of the best Spring medicine. The first dose will show that it is different from any other medicine you have taken, and that it is of great value. Hood's Sarsaparilla will tone the stomach, create a good appetite, and give strength to the whole system. Hood's Sarsaparilla will purify the blood, and thus remove the cause of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, and all other diseases originating in impure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome that tired feeling, which is so common at this season of the year. Hood's Sarsaparilla will create an appetite for food, and will give you strength to eat it. Hood's Sarsaparilla will regulate the kidneys and liver, and will build you up when you feel all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla will do you good. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Purify the Blood

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for some time, and have derived benefit from it. It has given me an appetite and strength. I was very much run down, and was troubled with a boil coming up on the back of my neck. I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the boil soon disappeared. I have also been troubled with dyspepsia, but since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have not had any trouble with my stomach. I have also been troubled with rheumatism in my shoulder, but since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have had no trouble with it. I have also been troubled with my kidneys, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my liver, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my blood, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my nerves, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my heart, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my lungs, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my throat, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my eyes, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my ears, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my nose, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my mouth, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my teeth, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my hair, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my skin, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my nails, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my feet, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my hands, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my arms, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my legs, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my body, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my soul, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my spirit, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my mind, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my memory, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my imagination, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my will, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. I have also been troubled with my conscience, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of that trouble. Republican National Convention.

AT CHICAGO, JUNE 3d, 1884.

WASHINGTON D. C., April 12, 1884.

A National Republican Convention will assemble in Chicago, Illinois, on Tuesday, June 3d, 1884, at 12 o'clock noon, for the nomination of candidates to be supported for President and Vice-President at the next election.

The Republican electors of the several States, and all other citizens without regard to past political differences who shall favor defeating and unifying American labor, protecting and extending home industries, giving free and fair consideration to the masses of the people, securing free suffrage and an honest counting of ballots, equal rights and protection for all human rights to every section, every person, every industry, and who desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent union by securing to those lately in rebellion a National system, equal to these objects, are cordially invited to send to such Convention delegates at large from each Congressional District two delegates and for each Congressional district over two delegates to the Convention.

The basis of representation in the several State Conventions shall be two delegates at large and one additional delegate for every three hundred votes and a majority fraction thereof cast for the Republican candidate for Presidential electors at the last preceding election, according to the official returns of such election.

By order of the Republican Congressional Committee.

CHIEF-JUSTICE MARSHALL.

The Statue at Washington.

Oration of Chief-Justice Waite.

WASHINGTON, May 10. No better day could have been selected for the unveiling of the Marshall statue. The trees and the lawns are in their richest green, while flowering shrubs, the lilacs, snow-balls and all their kinds are in masses of bright color. The statue, a seated figure of bronze, heroic in size, rests upon an oblong pedestal at the foot of the terrace stairway on the west front of the Capitol, at the union of the two wide walks which lead to Pennsylvania and Maryland avenues respectively. Its face is to the west, overlooking the half dozen acres of open, well shaven lawn which intervenes between the terrace and botanical garden. For the occasion a platform had been erected upon three sides of the pedestal, upon which were placed chairs for the convenience of the two thousand public men and distinguished citizens who had been invited to witness and take part in the proceedings.

In the centre and at the foot of the statue, a small platform covered with bunting was placed for the occupancy of the eulogists, the trustees of the Marshall Memorial Fund, and the members of the library committee of Congress.

The exercises attending the unveiling were begun at 1 o'clock. Seated upon the central platform were Chief-Justice Waite and the Philadelphia trustees of the Marshall Memorial Association, Rev Dr Armstrong of Richmond, rector of the church of which Judge Marshall was a communicant, Senators Sherman, Voorhees and Hoar, and Representative Singleton, of the Joint Committee on the Library, and Librarian Spofford. Immediately in front was seated the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives. To their left and members of the Cabinet and behind them the associate justices of the Supreme Court, the other judicial robes. The members of the two houses of Congress, members of the Marshall family, ladies and distinguished people from a distance, filled the remaining space. The Marine Band was in attendance and began the ceremonies by playing "Sarjeta's March," by Sousa. Prayer was offered by Dr Armstrong, after which Chief-Justice Waite delivered the following oration

Address of Chief Justice Waite

Chief-Justice Marshall died in Philadelphia on the 6th of July, 1835. The next day the bar of that city met and resolved what it be recommended to the bar of the United States to co-operate in erecting a monument to his memory at some suitable place in the city of Washington. A few days later the bar of the city of New York appointed a committee to represent them in the work, which had just been inaugurated.

The Philadelphia Committee, declining to make the subscriptions as extensive as possible, and to avoid the inconvenience to those who may be willing to unite with them" expressed the wish "that individual subscriptions should be moderate, and that the required amount may be made up by the number of contributions, rather than the magnitude of particular donations, so that the monument may be truly be the work of the bar of the United States, and an enduring evidence of their veneration for the memory of the illustrious deceased." Accordingly in this way the sum of $3 000 was collected, and then the subscriptions stopped. By judicious management the $6,000 of 1884 had grown in 1850 to be almost $20,000. In order that the Nation might join therein honoring the memory of the great man to whom so much was due, Congress added another $20,000 to the investment. Judge Marshall was appointed Chief Justice in January, 1801, and took his seat on the bench at the following February term.

The Court had then been in existence but 12 years, and in that time less than 500 cases had passed under its judgment.

The government under the Constitution was only organized 12 years before, and in the first 11 amendments of the Constitution had been regularly proposed and adopted. Comparatively nothing had been done judicially to define the powers or develope the resources of the Constitution.

The common law of the mother country had been, either silently or by express enactment adopted as the foundation of the system by which the rights of persons and property were to be determined. But scarcely anything had been done by the courts to adapt it to the new form of government or to the new relations of the people. While a successful revolution had produced, in short, the Nation, the Constitution, and the laws were in the infancy under these circumstances it was most fortunate for the country that the great Chief Justice retained his high position for 34 years and that during all that time, with scarcely any interruption he kept on the bench, he showed himself so competent to perform, as year after year went by, and new occasion required, with increasing high enforced by his cogent English to develope the hidden treasures of the constitution, demonstrated its capacities and showed beyond all reasonable doubt that a government rightfully administered under its authority could protect itself and against the world. He kept himself at the front on all questions of constitutional law and consequently his master hand is seen in every case which involved that subject. At the time he and his co-laborers, whose names, some of them almost as familiar as his own, were engaged in laying deep and strong the foundations on which the superstructure of the country has since been built.

These men in quick succession all the national questions of constitutional and general law which would naturally present themselves for judicial determination in a new and rapidly developing country. Complications growing out of wars in Europe and our own war with Great Britain brought up disputes for settlement and the boundary line between the Powers and of State and the United States had more than once to be run and marked. The authority of the United States was extended by treaty over territory not originally within jurisdiction. All these involved the consideration of subjects comparatively new in the domain of the law and rights were to be settled, not by authorities alone but by application of right and reason.

Here the Chief Justice was at home and where the end of his long and eminent career he did down his life he and those who had notably assisted him in his great work had the right to say that the judicial power of the United States had been carefully preserved and wisely administered. The Nation can never honor him of them too much for the work they have so accomplished.

"I ask you," said the orator in conclusion, "to look on what is hereafter to represent at the seat of the Government the reverence of Congress and the bar of the United States for John Marshall, the expounder of the Constitution."

At the conclusion of Chief Justice Waite's address the statue was unveiled by the Chief Justice and greeted with clapping of hands by the spectators and by music from the band.

An oration was then delivered by Wm Henry Rawle, Esq, and at the conclusion of his address the benediction was pronounced and the ceremonies ended.

HEWITT TRIES HIS HAND.

Another Tariff Bill

With Lumber on the Free List.

WASHINGTON, May 11. Five of the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee, Morrison, Blackburn, Blount, Herbert and Hewitt met at the House of the latter Saturday evening to consider a tariff bill which he intends to introduce to-morrow. The principal feature of the bill will be a series of provisions based on the recommendations of the Secretary of the Treasury and upon decisions rendered by the Treasury Department with respect to the construction of the present tariff laws, which abolished or removes the difficulty that now occurs in the administration of the law. Mr Hewitt is chairman of the sub-committee of the Ways and Means Committee to which this matter was referred early in the session and he has been at work on it since. He has, however, added to those provisions others which propose a reduction of the present tariff rates on some articles and the abolition of the tax on others, that in his opinion will reduce the revenue from duties above $50,000,000 per annum.

In the latter portion of the bill it is understood Mr Hewitt provides for the enlargement of the free list to the extent of putting on that list all the articles in the free list of the Morrison bill as it was reported to the House, and a few others, and that he also adopts the limitation clauses of the Morrison bill with respect to articles enumerated in the cotton, wool and metal schedules of the tariff laws. The object of the meeting at Hewitt's house was to secure the opinions of the members of the Democratic majority of the Ways and Means Committee regarding the introduction of the proposed bill at this time. The matter was informally discussed, but nothing was determined as to the consideration of the bill by the committee.

Mr. Hewitt will, however, introduce it in the house to-morrow. Chairman Morrison said that the committee had never considered anything beyond the Morrison bill, and that since the defeat of that measure they had not had a meeting and did not know how the committee or the majority in the House would treat the proposed Hewitt bill, but the committee have no objection to the introduction of the measure by Mr Hewitt and its reference to them.

Butler Asks Jones a Few Questions

NEW YORK, May 11. The Sun publishes an interview with Gen Butler regarding the letter of Chairman Jones, of the New York State Greenback Convention, in which the General is requested to make a statement of his views in connection with his possible nomination for the Presidency by the Greenbackers. Gen Butler said he had not received the letter, but read it in the papers. I suppose the letter must be a hoax, said the General. I cannot conceive of such performance done in earnestness. After reading the letter, if I felt in a sensitive mood I should want, as it looks so much like a trap, Mr Jones to answer me a question or two before I answer him.

First, who are you, Mr Jones?

Second, are you in favor of my nomination by anybody?

Third, if I am nominated will you support me?

After ascertaining these three things I should be in a condition of mind to answer the Jones questions. Gen Butler continued the whole matter is simply a joke. No sound, sober, man would ask me or anybody else to be nominated by a platform of principles he never has seen and that is not yet made. No sane convention ever knowingly placed in its platform such a resolution as is contained in the Jones letter. I never heard of such a resolution.

MATTHEWS' MURDERER.

Trial of the Assassin Wheeler.

HAZLEHURST, Miss., May 10. In the Wheeler case Geo Thompson and Alex Burton, both colored, testified that they were at the polls when Matthews was killed. They were at the polling place before Matthews. When Matthews came in he shook hands with Conwell and Wheeler and refreshed chatting a few minutes with Wheeler and the polls opened. Thompson saw Wheeler cocking Matthews and as soon as he discovered that Matthews noticed he picked up a gun from behind the door and shot Matthews, who was standing with his arms akimbo looking for the ballot box. Burton also saw Wheeler shoot Matthews. The witness received one of Wheeler's shots in the leg. Both witnesses said they saw no motion by Matthews to draw a weapon.

An Accommodating Sheriff.

Dr. A. B. Gates who refused to testify in the Matthews murder trial to-day was fined $100 by Judge Wharton and ordered locked up for contempt. He was permitted by the Sheriff to enter his house to make arrangements and slipped out the back way and escaped. An attachment has been issued for him.

A MOB OF MOULDERS.

Non-Union Men Brutally Attacked

QUINCY, Ill., May 10. The striking moulders are responsible for two riots today. This morning while a load of non-union men was being driven to work the team was stopped by a gang of masked men and the driver shot in the arm, shattering his elbow and a non union moulder shot in the palm of his hand. The other members of the party were fired several blocks and stones were thrown at them and shots fired. A party of non-unionmen from Detroit were attacked as they got off the train. Several were knocked down with clubs and stones and injured in various ways.

A wagon met them at the depot to take them to the hotel, but several were unable to reach the wagon and were driven away by union men. Those who reached the wagon were pelted with stones until beyond range. The police has been doubled. The non-union men have been forbidden to appear on the streets after dark, and their hotel is guarded by armed men. Serious trouble is apprehended and there is strong talk of appealing to the Governor for aid.

FOREIGN NEWS.

THE KHARTOUM EXPEDITION

LONDON, May 10. Preparations for the relief expedition go forward with new vigor. It is now decided that the expedition shall start in July. The strength of the force has not yet been determined, but it will probably number 8000 men, including an Indian contingent. The Intelligence department of the War office has instructed the military attaches at Cairo to send surveys of routes to report on the relative advantages of routes by the way of Suakim and Massowah. From this it is supposed that there will be two lines of operations, that the main expedition will proceed up the Nile, and the other by the Red Sea.

A cable telegraph has been established at Assouan and camels are being collected in considerable numbers. Col. Ardagh is at the head of the Commission at Cairo to which has been entrusted the storage of water for the desert route.

Nubar Pasha will arrive in England next month to attend the Egyptian Conference. His demands for indemnities to the conference will be rejected but he will be allowed to be present for consultation.

A Four Months' Leave of Absence.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 11. Mr. Wallace, American Minister, will soon return to the United States on a four months' leave of absence for the purpose of giving attention to private business.

France and China

LONDON, May 11. Advices from Tonquin say Capt. Laurdeau, acting on behalf of the French Government, has concluded a treaty of Chung, for Pih, whereby signed a treaty of the provisions of which China recognizes the French protectorate over Tonquin and Annam, with the existing frontiers. It stipulates that the contracting parties shall together regulate the customs police on the frontier.

Foreign Notes

CAIRO, May 11. Outbreaks between the soldiers and natives are of daily occurrence. Friday a fight occurred outside of Alexandria between a party of English soldiers and a number of Bedouins from Lake Mareotis in which several were killed. The Arabs around Assouan received a message from El Mahdi and threaten to revolt.

A Credit to Her Mother.

BY REBECCA H. PERKINS.

Oft times I've chanced to see
A little household fairy
Always busy as a bee,
Tripping light and airy
Hurriedly with a smile,
Aidful mother;
Is one I choose to style—
A credit to her mother."

...are ladies that never shirk
...Doing well their duty;
...is not afraid to work,
Though it mars their beauty;
...ch and pretty as a pink,
...her ability neatness,
would charm you, too, I think,
her mien sweetness.

...bud lips and eyes as blue
...the sky above her,
...the heart, so pure and true
...who could fail to love her?
...and winner, if you plan
...you'll be a lover,
...ld haste, were I a man,
...a wife to choose her.

Agricultural.

Peas should be sown about ten days ...art for a succession.

There need be few waste products about ... farm. Litter that cannot be otherwise ...e utilized can be composted with profit.

Strong, vigorous and healthy plants, well cultivated in rich soil, are not so liable to be troubled with lice and disease as those put in poor soil and half cared ...

Now is the time to sow oats and barley. If they are not put in yet till one week the ...ound prepared for them had better be used for some other crop.

In all except sandy or gravelly soils ...nures applied in excess of the needs of ...e crop are not wasted. It is quite common on heavy land to find plots of exhausted fertility that had a dressing of ...e some five or six years before, especially ...f the land had been in grass or clover during the time.

...one of the most valuable mulches for ...s in orchards is well-rotted chip manure, and the refuse sawdust around the ...shingle, which is usually mixed with ...ore valuable material in the heaps from ...e house that are often thrown on it. ...e heap should be got out of the way ...re the approach of warm weather.

Practical fruit growers have found by ...perimenting that an application of ...ound gypsum or land plaster, as it is ...ommonly called, will destroy large numbers of insects which infest apple blossoms and cause them to blight. The gypsum should be thrown over the tree, and among the blossoms when they are in full ...om. It is a cheap remedy and worthy ...l.

The idea that sorrel denotes a sour condition of the soil, because the sorrel leaf itself acid, is an old notion long since exploded. Lime and ashes have been commended to correct this supposed ...lity. They will often prevent the sorrel, but they do it by encouraging the ...owth of clover, which, with a good ...ch, will usually keep down all annual ...ds.

...ny plants with inconspicuous flowers ...nevertheless, very desirable for the ...se on account of their fragrance. ...ignonette may be grown in a box in a ...ny window or under a window, and it ...ll perfume the whole house. Sweet ...ssum is excited by few plants for ...owing in the house. Its small, white ...owers are borne in such profusion as to ...very conspicuous, and the odor is ...ative.

...e cultivation of flowers is now urged ...on a purely scientific basis, especially ...low or unsalutary localities. The perfumes of many of most flowers convert ...e oxygen of the air into ozone, which ...ch powerfully oxidizing effect upon decaying matter, and is, therefore, of great ...portance in matters of health. The most ...norous flowers should be planted for this ...pose, such as mignonette, alyssum, ...otrope, perennial pinks, lilies, etc.

...e same species of plant does not ...ays grow and behave the same in different parts of the country. Seeds of a ...t usually propagate many of most of ...e peculiarities of the parent. Seeds from ...s grown in Canada usually produce ...dy offspring. Seeds from the same ...cies grown in Alabama or Florida ...uld not likely produce offspring which ...ld endure the Canadian climate. Prof ... Budd, of the Iowa Agricultural College gives some interesting illustrances of ...is kind. The common box elder which ...ws in Iowa gives hardy offspring. Seeds ...m the same species grown in southern ...lvania do not give trees hardy in ...wa. The same is true even of the native ...lar, which enjoins the fierce winds ...every mountain crag. Prof. Budd ...o asserts that trees grown from Tennessee ...ds are not hardy in the climate of Iowa. ...e also asserts that Iowa seeds of the ...een ash give rise to both the green and ...e red ash. Similar experience is cited by ...her parties. A well-known instance of ...is variation in different parts ...this country is the common June grass ...blue in Kentucky, is the famous Kentucky ...e grass.

...E. Parkhurst, Esq., of Presque Isle, ...s in a communication to the American Cultivator, in regard to stock raising, says: ...e the question whether or not beef raising can be made profitable in New England the answer commonly is that it is useless for our farmers to compete with ...ose of the far West, where it is claimed ...at herds may be reared for by single ...wners, and where neither shelter nor ...nvested winter food needs to be provided.

...will not undertake to argue this point ...any great length, either from one side ...the other, as argument counts for little against actual facts. It is sufficient for ...me to know that by feeding two-thirds ...ozen for beef, I can thereby sell my oats ...at the rate of sixty cents per bushel which ...ost, the only forty cents to raise, and my ...ay at the rate of $12 per ton that costs ...me less than $8 per ton harvested.

The present system of stock-raising, as heretofore practiced, in the far Western States and Territories, is on the eve of a decided change. Cattle men from those sections admit that the time has passed for a farmer of moderate means to start with a few cows and other animals on Government land, and grow up in a few years a herd of a thousand head. Many of the small herds have already been sold out or consolidated with larger herds, while many more must follow the same course or be swallowed up by the great cattle kings. Again do settlers are fast crowding the cattle men. Step by step they are advancing and the cow-boys must slowly beat their retreat. Should immigration increase as fast in proportion during the next five years as has been the case for the last three years, the immense cattle ranches of to-day will soon be a thing of the past.

When we read that one man owns any 20,000 head of cattle and raises 5,000 calves annually without ever housing or providing winter feed for them, it makes our limited operations in the East look ...luminative enough. From their standpoint their massive stock husbandry looks immense in comparison with ours. But, on the other hand, when we read, as we have during the past few months, that in ...ecent of the States the stock has suffered to such an extent from the severe weather and from the necessity of eating frozen fodder that their mourns became sore, their ears and tails drop off, and their feet and legs present loathsome, running sores; when we read of the large percentage of deaths among these neglected herds, when we know as a fact that it takes several years for the exposed herds to recover from the ill effects of such severe cold storms, then we may turn to our own warm barns and comfortable, shivering herds with a feeling of happy contentment that makes a Paradise of the New England farmer's home in the comparison.

The future promises great results to our farmers if they will produce first-class beef. Our markets are fully supplied with beef from the West, produced under many ...isadvantages, and transported to our markets over long lines of railroads, often ...uffering from hunger, thirst and cold. Not so with our beef, when it is ripe we can put it into the market as fresh as when it leaves the stables, making it much more ...esirable as food for the consuming classes. With good, well-bred stock, and intelligence in care and feeding, we need not fear competition from any one or from any section of our country. The farmer who has lost money by raising stock and feeding high to get them ready for the butcher at twenty-four or thirty months, is yet to be heard from. The farmer who cannot make his farm grow better by such farming had better go West or change his ...ccupation. It sometimes requires courage and faith to pay out money for meal when the markets are dull on beef, but with a dull market weights make it a little extra in quality, and the animals will be ripe when our money will get among back with good interest.

THE BALDWIN DRY AIR REFRIGERATOR.

Preserving Qualities, Convenience and Economy of Ice, They Have no Equal.

The interior construction is such as to secure a free circulating of air being placed in such a manner as to equalize and maintain a uniform atmosphere, it being colder than on the opposite side, thus causing a circulation or constant motion of air, the warm air passing through the ice compartment, and up through the provision apartments, the air passing through the ice chamber all moisture and impurities which it contains is condensed by the ice, and pass off with the drip thus preventing not only a cold but a perfectly pure and dry atmosphere. THE THREE CONDITIONS NECESSARY FOR THE PRESERVATION OF ANY ARTICLE OF FOOD.

We cannot give a full description, but will furnish, on application, descriptive circulars, etc. Parties interested in refrigerators are invited to examine and test them.

In 1870 I bought of you a refrigerator. I could not and I have built it comfortable. I know that there is a better one. I have thoroughly tested your Refrigerator and find it to be all you claim for it. In this climate, and especially compared with earth cellars, and find that with the same amount of ice in each, yours is from 10 to 12 degrees colder in the coldest part of the day, and that it will hold ice from 10 to 12 days longer. The dryness of a refrigerator is of most important and is coolness. Should in this respect ...ve a couple of slow burners in the bottom of ...ch of your refrigerators, to be used in case ...f moisture in the air. I have, while in ...ston, seen your refrigerators in use, and ...ey are the finest pieces of workmanship ...d dryness.

TESTIMONIALS AND MERIT.

Less than three months ago,

BELL'S SARSAPARILLA

was first brought to public notice. It has been advertised only in a limited manner, yet the sale in that time has reached to nearly and is constantly increasing. This great demand has come for the following reasons: Those who have tried the medicine have not been disappointed; no other preparation ever offered help has been so publicly endorsed as a Blood and Liver medicine of rare merit even their own signatures, by well-known citizens, as BELL'S SARSAPARILLA, the production of a remedy of the first and value of BELL'S SARSAPARILLA at 50 cents per bottle, while all others are sold for $1.00, is a new idea, but it has proved a successful one. From every town where it has been introduced, comes the same response: It is the best and most popular selling spring medicine we keep.

8,000 BOTTLES,

The following from M. E. MANN & CO. is but a Sample of the Whole.

To A. M. Robinson, Jr. —Our usual stock for Bell's Sarsaparilla exceeds any other patent medicine with the exception of Warner's Safe Cure, and our jobbing trade for it is very good indeed.
